Letterhead for International Business for the people for The United States of America

The United States of America, it's heirs, successors, assigns, and claimants; the original Union known as the original Confederacy of 1781, brought forward and re-populated in the present time.

Vs.

George Washington Estate et al, its heirs, successors, and assigns.

CLAIM OF RIGHT

The United States of America, its heirs, successors, assigns, and claimants, (hereinafter, “the original Union”) hereby reaffirm the following rights:

1. The original Union claims the right that International law is the standard of conduct of nations in their reciprocal relations; and
2. The original Union claims the right of International order which consists essentially of respect for the character, sovereignty, and independence of nations, and the faithful fulfillment of obligations derived from treaties and other sources of international law; and
3. The original Union claims the right of Good faith that shall govern the relations between nations; and
4. The perpetuity of the original Union, having been abandoned by the original States, the original Union reverted back to the people, and therefore, the original Union is now a Union of people known as American Nationals, a new political organization that has the right of the effective exercise of separate and equal station; and
5. The original Union has the right to choose, without external interference, its political, economic, and social system and to organize itself in the way best suited to it, and has the duty to abstain from intervening in the affairs of another nation. Subject to the foregoing, original Union shall cooperate fully among themselves, independently of the nature of their political, economic, and social systems; and
6. The original Union claims the right of the elimination of ALL poverty is an essential part of the promotion and consolidation of The United States of America and is the common and shared responsibility of The United States of America; and
7. The original Union condemns war of aggression: victory does not give rights; and
8. The original Union claims the right of an act of aggression against one American National is an act of aggression against all The United States of America, as a single independent nation and not a Union of the original thirteen States; and

9. The original Union claims the right of controversies of an international character arising between a nation and The United States of America shall be settled by peaceful procedures; and
10. The original Union claims the right of Economic cooperation that is essential to the common welfare and prosperity of The United States of America; and
11. The original Union proclaims the fundamental rights of the individual without distinction as to race, nationality, creed, or gender; and
12. The original Union claims the right of spiritual unity of The United States of America in a separate sphere which is based on respect for the cultural values of nation building.
13. The original Union claims the right to educate within the metes and bounds of The United States of America and shall be directed toward Law, freedom, and peace.

Having shown the present day plight of the original Union in its current condition of genocide, the present day affirmed American Nationals will now transition to the original Confederacy 1781 the entity known as “The United States of America”

1. The United States of America has the right to free unencumbered use of the rural free delivery routes; and
2. The United States of America has the right to govern itself in its own judicial process; and
3. The United States of America has the right to declare exile and proclaim its own existence; and
4. The United States of America has the right to enter or decline treaty agreements; and
5. The United States of America has the right to handle its own affairs unencumbered without usurpation by power of attorney; and
6. The United States of America has the right not to be sanctioned arbitrarily; and
7. The United States of America has the right of its own Government; and
8. The United States of America has the right to its own central bank; and
9. The United States of America has a right to its own coins, electronic currency and the type of medium of exchange it so chooses; and
10. The United States of America, its heirs, successors, assigns and claimants have the right to retain clear title to all property within its own survey and sphere; and
11. The United States of America has a right to its own general post office, and survey of the rural free delivery routes; and
12. The United States of America has the right through its Government to provide protection for its permanent population; and
13. The United States of America has a right to its own transportation (systems) and register (registry systems) for its own vehicles and certify (certification systems) for its own operators; and
14. The United States of America has the right not to be ruled by any supreme executive authority, also known as a Monarch; and
15. The United States of America has a right to import and export without encumbrance nor hindrance; and

16. The United States of America has a right to enact and enforce its own laws; and
17. The United States of America has a right to issue its own travel documents for the purpose of commerce and pleasure, internationally; and
18. The United States of America has the right to solidarity for the purpose of strengthening the peace and security of the continent; and

26. The United States of America has the right to use international law as its standard of conduct in its reciprocal relations; and
27. The United States of America has the right to be juridically equal, enjoy equal rights and equal capacity to exercise these rights, and have equal duties. The rights of each nation depend not upon its power to ensure the exercise thereof, but upon the mere fact of its existence as a person under international law; and
28. The United States of America has the right to respect the rights enjoyed by every other nation in accordance with international law; and
29. The rights of The United States of America may not be impaired in any manner whatsoever; and
30. The United States of America's existence is independent of recognition by other nations. Even before being recognized, the nation has the right to defend its integrity and independence, to provide for its preservation and prosperity, and consequently to organize itself as it sees fit, to legislate concerning its interests, to administer its services, and to determine the jurisdiction and competence of its courts. The exercise of these rights is limited only by the exercise of the rights of other nations in accordance with international law; and
31. The United States of America has the right to recognition which implies that the nation granting it accepts the personality of the new nation, with all the rights that international law prescribes for the two nations; and
32. The United States of America has the right to protect itself and to live its own life, but is not authorized by its people to commit unjust acts against another nation; and

- 33. The United States of America has the right to exercise jurisdiction equally over all the inhabitants, whether nationals or aliens, within the limits of its national territory; and
- 34. The United States of America has the right to develop its cultural, political, and economic life freely and naturally. In this free development, The United States of America shall respect the rights of the individual and the principles of universal morality; and
- 35. The United States of America has the right to respect for and the faithful observance of treaties, which constitute standards for the development of peaceful relations among nations. International treaties and agreements should be public; and
- 36. No nation or group of nations has the right to intervene, directly or indirectly, for any reason whatever, in the internal or external affairs of The United States of America. The foregoing principle prohibits not only armed force but also any other form of interference or attempted threat against the character (personality) of The United States of America, or against its political, economic, and cultural elements; and
- 37. No foreign nation may use or encourage the use of coercive measures of an economic or political character in order to force the sovereign will of The United States of America from its advantages of any kind; and
- 38. The territory of The United States of America is inviolable; it may not be the object, even temporarily, of military occupation or of other measures of force taken by another nation, directly or indirectly, on any grounds whatsoever. No territorial acquisitions or special advantages obtained either by force or by other means of coercion shall be recognized; and
- 39. The United States of America has the right to bind itself in international relations, to have recourse against the use of force in the case of self-defense in accordance with existing treaties or in fulfillment thereof; and
- 40. The United States of America has the right to accept or reject any and all religious Teachings; and
- 41. The United States of America has the right to peaceful procedures: direct negotiation, good offices, mediation, investigation and conciliation, judicial settlement, arbitration, and those which the parties to the dispute may especially agree upon at any time; and
- 42. The United States of America has the right, in the event that a dispute arises between The United States of America and another nation or nations, in the opinion of one of them, cannot be settled through the usual diplomatic channels, the parties shall agree on some other peaceful procedure that will enable them to reach a solution; and

PROCLAMATION

The Government of The United States of America, the Confederacy of 1781, it's heirs, successors, assigns, and claimants, (hereinafter, "The United States of America") brought forward and re-populated in the present time and is re-claimed and reformed for the purpose of peaceful settlement of dispute by and between the George Washington Estate and The United States of America.

IT IS PROCLAIMED that George Washington Estate, it's heirs, successors, and assigns against The United States of America did knowingly and without regard for human rights violate multiple articles of the current Universal Declaration of Human Rights of 1948 and the Law of Nations.

Article 21 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights:

- (1) Everyone has the right to take part in the government of his country, directly or through freely chosen representatives.
- (2) Everyone has the right to equal access to public service in his country.
- (3) The will of the people shall be the basis of the authority of government; this will shall be expressed in periodic and genuine elections which shall be by universal and equal suffrage and shall be held by secret vote or by equivalent free voting procedures.

Violations by George Washington Estate, its heirs, successors, and assigns:

Violation occurred in 1787 when George Washington called for a Grand Constitutional Convention in the name of The United States of America, a Confederacy of Independent States of which the George Washington Estate was never a party to the Declaration Independence of 1776, nor a party to The United States of America of 1781. Further, the George Washington Estate was never a party to any of the 13 original States nor ever took an oath or affirmation to any of the original thirteen States. George Washington was a General in the Military, and had no the authority to attempt to change the form of Government to a Monarchy form of rule.

Article 3 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights:

Everyone has the right to life, liberty and security of person

Violations by George Washington Estate, its heirs, successors, and assigns:

Violation occurred three days after the Grand Constitutional Convention of 1787 was convened; George Washington and others introduced three separate constitutions for which at the time was treason against the original Union of thirteen independent States.

Article 4 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights:

No one shall be held in slavery or servitude; slavery and the slave trade shall be prohibited in all their forms.

Violations by George Washington Estate, its heirs, successors, and assigns:

Violation occurred in 1789 and 1792, when the Constitution of the United States was signed by George Washington alone and witnessed by 39 delegates, just shy of the 74 required to change the form of Government as required in Article XIII of the original Articles of Confederation. After creating an overlay survey called a District, claimed citizens of the United States for free White males only.

Article 17 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights:

- (1) Everyone has the right to own property alone as well as in association with others.
- (2) No one shall be arbitrarily deprived of his property.

Violations by George Washington Estate, its heirs, successors, and assigns:

Violation occurred in 1789 in a Letter from George Washington to Muhammed Ibn Abdullah —City of New York December 1, 1789

Quote:

The United States of America have thought proper to change their government and institute a new one, agreeable to the Constitution, of which I have the honor, herewith, to enclose a copy. End quote.

Quote:

The United States, having unanimously appointed me to supreme executive authority in this Nation. End quote.

By the usurpation of the administrative record of the heirs, successors, assigns and claimants of The United States of America, the George Washington Estate, its heirs, successors and assigns are continuing to usurp that which rightfully belongs to the heirs, successors, assigns and claimants of original “The United States of America”. Since the 1948 Universal Declaration of Human Rights voted for by the heir, successor and assign of the George Washington Estate, it is very clear and an unmistakable that current violations of Article 21, 3, 4 and 17 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and multiple violations of the Law of Nations go unsettled. As evidence, if any present day affirmed American National attempts to assert any rights, the affirmed American National is labeled a “sovereign citizen”, “domestic terrorist” or any other kind of slanderous term that is intended to place pressure on the American National under the threat of murder to submit as a subject of the false administrative record of the George Washington Estate.

In conclusion, of this proclamation, The United States of America claims multiple violations of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, and the Law of Nations committed by the George Washington Estate, its heirs, successors and assigns. However, to continue to list all violations by the George Washington Estate, its heir, successors and assigns would become redundant and too shocking to the conscience for The United States of America at this time to list. Two hundred years of violations of the Law of Nations and many other crimes committed against The United States of America by the George Washington Estate, its heirs, successors and assigns are getting progressively worse on a daily basis through its massive size and weight. The George Washington Estate is filled with stolen property that rightfully belongs to The United States of America.

RESOLUTION OF THE ASSEMBLY OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, CONFEDERACY 1781

Stressing the urgent need to achieve a comprehensive, just and lasting peace between The United States of America and the George Washington Estate, et al.

We, the undersigned, having met, heard and discussed the business herein set forth, have unanimously consented:

That the policy and practices of the George Washington Estate et al, have no legal validity over The United States of America and constitutes a serious obstruction to achieving a comprehensive, just and lasting peace between them;

We call once more upon the George Washington Estate et al, as the occupying Power, to rescind its measures and to desist from taking any action which would result in changing the legal status and geographical nature and materially affecting the demographic composition of The United States of America, its territories occupied since George Washington Estate et al, and in particular, not to transfer parts of its own population into the occupied territories and cease further violation of Human rights;

1. RESOLVED, that the President of the George Washington Estate et al, be and hereby is ordered to recognize and publish that, The United States of America, Confederacy of 1781, original Union is a separate and independent Nation and acknowledge its current condition so that it may continue to grow;
2. RESOLVED, that the President of the George Washington Estate et al, be and hereby is ordered to acknowledge, The United States of America, Confederacy of 1781 as having complete and absolute possession of its own sphere;
3. RESOLVED, that the President of the George Washington Estate et al, be and hereby is ordered to recognize and publish, The United States of America, Confederacy of 1781 as having independent standing in the world community;
4. RESOLVED, that the President of the George Washington Estate et al, be and hereby is ordered to obtain, recognize and publish the, The United States of America, its independent country code(s) and banking code(s);
5. RESOLVED, that the President of the George Washington Estate et al, be and hereby is ordered to recognize the full title currency of The United States of America, whether in the form of electronic currency or in the form of its coin.
6. RESOLVED, that the President of the George Washington Estate et al, to accept and acknowledge the Jubilee of The United States of America
7. RESOLVED, that the President of the George Washington Estate et al, to cease and desist claiming full power of attorney of The United States of America through supreme executive authority over its own George Washington Estate.

Further, cease and desist taking proxy for The United States of America to influence its foreign affairs to the benefit of the George Washington Estate, et al.

NOTE:

IT IS CLEAR, that the George Washington Estate is not a Democracy as represented to the world. The George Washington Estate et al, known today as the United States or the United States of America is a Monarchy, and always has been a Monarchy since 1789. Therefore, there has never existed a free election of, by and for the people in the United States since 1789.

TIME: May 7th, 2014

The President of the George Washington Estate has 30 days to embrace and execute the aforementioned RESOLUTIONS in the spirit of peace with The United States of America. Otherwise, the President of the George Washington Estate is admitting to the personal intent of genocide against a whole Nation and a free people.
